Trustees hire head coach

The Georgetown Athletic Program and school district have made enough of a name for themselves so that when they went looking for an athletic director, they received 78 applications. Applications for Georgetown Athletic Director and Head Coach came not only from all over Texas, but also one each from New Mexico and Canada.

With only one position available and so many persons qualified for the job, Principal Jim Hundley and Superintendent Jack Frost formed a screening committee. Working weekends and nights they interviewed 42 of the applicants, thus narrowing the best qualified to seven.

Following seven hours of interviewing Thursday night, in which each of the seven candidates received 45 minutes of the trustees' undivided attention, the board members voted unanimously at 12:30 a.m. to hire Les Johnson, as he prefers to be called.

"I'm really looking forward to getting in here to work with these nice people. I'm impressed with the school board members and what I've heard of the fine young men I will be working with," Johnson mused excitedly in the wee hours of Friday morning.

"I should be here Monday week at the latest. There is so much that has to be done in the next five to six months that I can hardly wait to get started."

Johnson will come to Georgetown with a record of 26 wins, six losses, one tie and three district championships during his three years as varsity assistant at Bryan High School. He draws from 17 years coaching experience.

He has served as head coach at Goldthwaite and Eden with a won-loss record of 101 wins, 48 losses, three ties and 12 district championships overall.

Johnson, a 1959 graduate of Sul Ross State University, majored in physical education and minored in biology. In high school he lettered two years each in football, basketball and track. He played baseball three years.

New head coach of the 1975 North Zone Cochamps, Johnson said he will name his coaching staff within the next few weeks, "there's a lot to be done."

Although Johnson will be here in a week, he will not move his family to Georgetown until after school is out, because his oldest son, Scott, is a senior at Bryan High School. Johnson and his wife, Wanda, have three children besides Scott, Bennett 14, an eighth grader; Anna 10, a fifth grader, and Romonda, 2 1/2.

"I would like to ask for the community's support and I would appreciate their prayers," Coach Johnson said in closing.

Sheriff's Office moving

Finishing touches are being completed on the new Williamson County Sheriff's offices in the basement of the county courthouse, and personnel expect to begin moving in this weekend.

Business will continue to be handled through the old offices on the first floor, east side of the courthouse the rest of this weekend, and moving will begin Sunday.

Democrats draw ballot order for presidential primary

Delegates pledged to Jimmy Carter will appear first on Democratic Primary ballots in Williamson County, according to results of the drawing held Monday by the county Democratic Executive Committee.

Four presidential candidates, each to be represented by three delegates in the state senatorial district which includes Williamson County, will appear first on the Texas Democratic primary ballots.

In the order drawn, names on the ballot will be: Israel Galvan of Round Rock, John R. Bigham of Temple and Sandra Mintz, Taylor.

Ballot format will continue with "Bert L. Kiesel delegate for GEORGE WALLACE." Kiesel is from Victoria. The other two Wallace delegates' names will follow in the order drawn:

Roy M. Sartain, James K. Barnes. Sartain resides in Leander, Barnes in Temple.

THIRD PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE drawn in the district courtroom meeting Monday was Fred Harris.

In the order they were drawn, his delegates' names will be printed below those of Wallace's: C. Bowen Davis, Essie R. McDaniel, Wm. Fred Alsop. All three delegates are from Temple. Last drawn was the name of presidential candidate Lloyd Bentsen.

The order in which his delegates' names will be printed on the ballot places the name of LaGrange resident John Wilson first, to be followed by that of Mrs. Bill Carrin Patman of Ganado and of Jamie H. Clements of Temple.

No slate of delegates wishing to go to the National Democratic convention "uncommitted" will appear on local Democratic ballots.

The three delegates receiving the top number of votes will represent this senatorial district at the Democratic National convention at Madison Square Garden in New York July 12.

IN BOTH the Republican and Democratic primaries this year, voters will elect delegates pledged to presidential candidates, instead of voting directly for a candidate.

The Democratic ballots will remind voters they may vote for any three delegates.

"You can't over-vote a ballot, though you can under-vote," said County Clerk Dick Cervenka. Cervenka explained that the presidential section

For ever and anon the balance of political power in Williamson County was conceded to be held by Granger, pivotal between Taylor and Georgetown. This may have changed. If it hasn't, it soon very well may.

POLITICAL POWER in the county is surely going to move westward, centering around Georgetown, Round Rock, Cedar Park and the other fast growing communities such as Leander, Liberty Hill and Florence. Even in the present election, Round Rock could replace Granger as the pivotal city.

To gain political dominance, however, the west end of the county will have to learn to vote. In most recent elections, many newcomers just didn't bother. As the years go by, however, these newcomers will become old settlers, interested in county politics and more inclined to make their interests known at the polls.

IT WILL BE INTERESTING to see how the towns get together — if they ever do. Clearly, the Georgetown and Round Rock of another decade could field an almost unbeatable team in county politics; but, so could the team of Taylor and Round Rock, or Georgetown and Taylor. All sorts of combinations are possible, and probable. It all depends on how our political leaders work things out between themselves.

Adolph J. Huf, who describes himself as "a retired old bachelor" was the first SUN subscriber to claim his "Save-A-Buck" renewal Thursday morning. "I have been getting this paper most of my life," he said, "even when I was in Aleutian Islands and the Philippines during the war." Wiry Adolph is mighty spry for his 66 years.

DAUGHTER LINDA has returned to New York after spending what she called "a wonderful month" helping edit the SUN and being in Georgetown. Sure is quiet around the house since she left.

Does anyone ever really love the rich uncle? The U.S. dished out billions in aid to floundering countries over a long period of years, only to have some of these recipients, grown fat and comfortable, kick us in the face. Now, Russia must be wondering about its history of lending a helping hand. Egypt, which has received billions in money and materials from the Soviets, this week announced it was ending its "friendship" pact with that country. Naturally, this is good news for the U. S. but must be mighty aggravating to the Rusksies. Remember, in the last Israel-Egypt war the Jews had the whole Egyptian army in a starving circle and were closing in when Russia sent word it would militarily intervene unless hostilities ceased. In other words, the Russians saved Egypt's skin and now Egypt tells the Reds to pick up their marbles and go home. Sounds familiar, doesn't it?

Here we go again!

The SUN and SUNDAY SUN's annual subscription renewal sale is underway!

FOR THE NEXT TWO WEEKS, ending April 1, subscribers can renew and, collectively, save a tidy $6,000.00 or to put it a bit more realistically — up to $1.50 each.

It's still being called the SUN Save-a-Buck renewal campaign, but, actually, the subscriber who renews for both papers saves $1.50.

There's a small catch to it, however.

Instead of going on for a customary six weeks, the Save-A-Buck feature ends in just two weeks, so if you intend to renew, waste no time in doing so. You would be disappointed if you waited too long and failed to claim your fair share of the saving. And, oh yes, The SUNDAY SUN is now available to subscribers anywhere in the U.S.

The SUN is the oldest newspaper in Williamson County and has no doubt that it will survive another 100 years or so. Readers know whether it is amusing, informative or valuable to their lives. Subscribers know whether it's worth the price — $7.88 for both papers inside Williamson County — $11.55 for both papers anywhere else in the continental United States — so we feel it is unnecessary to describe or boast of its merits. You are the judge.

Won't you, this very day, take pen-in-hand and re-subscribe? You can use the coupon on Page 12, or simply send your check. We have your name and address!

Week's news in a nutshell

The interminable Patty Hearst trial seemed to be ending Friday, six months to the day Miss Hearst was arrested. Now it's up to the jury to decide whether, beyond a reasonable doubt, she was guilty of wilfully robbing the bank. The jury is expected to take a lot of time in reaching a decision, if ever. A "guilty" verdict will mean an appeal, of course.

GOVERNOR CARTER and President Ford were big winners in Illinois primaries Tuesday. Two other Democratic hopefuls entered the race — Governor Jerry Brown of California and Senator Frank Church of Idaho and at present remain an unknown quantity. Next test of the candidates is in North Carolina where Gov. Wallace, long believed the easy favorite, is expected to have tough sledding against charging Carter.

A wife is entitled to choose her sexual partner and a husband has no right to sue her lover, a Pennsylvania Judge has ruled, although he added that he personally wasn't favoring or condoning infidelity. Pennsylvania courts have permitted spouses to sue under these circumstances, but recently women began suing their husband's girl friends under the equal rights amendment adopted by the state legislature. That put a different face on the matter, somehow!

FORTY-TWO PEOPLE in Texas jails are sentenced to death with their cases subject to appellate review.

A check by the SUN found that most lawyers in the county felt that William S. Lott was better qualified to serve as a District Judge than his opponent, Tim Maresh. Both candidates reside in Georgetown and are locked in a hot foot race for the high office.

Rep. Dan Kubiak is having a series of hearings throughout his district to explore alternative suggestions to public school finance. One is set for Round Rock

CP bank suit set

A complaint filed in 26th District Court Monday by Bank of the Hills of Cedar Park has resulted in the filing of two countersuits in Austin this week.

The suit filed by the bank claims that Austin residents Judy Johnson Morris Olguin and the two in business as Olguin Land Company, failed to repay four promissory notes made between June 27 and December 1, 1975. The four notes total $207,616.29.

The first countersuit, asking $15 million, was filed Tuesday by Ms. Johnson and several related Austin businesses. The lawsuit alleges misappropriation of funds from the business checking accounts.

Ms. Johnson, an Austin developer, filed a second suit against the bank Wednesday, claiming the bank has damaged her business and credit reputation and had acted improperly in regard to loans she maintains there.

Both civil suits against the Cedar Park bank were filed in 200th District Court, Austin.

A HEARING on the suit filed against Ms. Johnson and Olguin will be heard by District Judge Kirby Vance Thursday.

That suit alleges that both defendants refused to repay the notes when they came due, thereby defaulting on the four notes.

The $90,000 note signed by Ms. Johnson June 27, 1975, was secured with "$98,617.32 due Judy Johnson in commissions held by Austin National Bank."

Her second note, signed December 1, totaled $27,430.30. Security was listed as "all present and future lease contracts between lessee and Commodore Perry Building."

She appears as co-signer on Olguin's November 17 note for $40,129.27, in which "all furniture located in the Texas Commodore Office Building and Hotel" was given as collateral.

YOU AND I WILL FLY

Half-a-century after Kitty Hawk an American man may "really fly."

SINCE DA VINCI, and probably before, men have dreamed of flying with manpower instead of horsepower — I mean a man flying by flapping his arms or pumping his legs or both.

Joe Zinno of North Providence, R. I., intends to — this year.

You and I are going to live to hop over the housetops on some form of flying tricycle.

Ever since the Wright brothers aeronautical science has concentrated on flying faster, higher, farther; more horsepower, more speed!

Now speed is less important. Fuel is more a factor. Economy is more significant.

Now that we can cross the continent in hours, what we need is some way to conveniently get across town.

THERE IS A STANDING OFFER by British industrialist Henry Kremer of $100,000 to the first man to fly a man-powered aircraft on a figure-eight course around two pylons half-a-mile apart — and he must cross the start and finish lines at least 10 feet off the ground.

While Americans have been preoccupied with speed and distance, British, Japanese and Austrians have made 17 successful flights of manpowered aircraft — but nobody has ever completed those two 180-degree turns.

Part of the problem is that the long wings, necessary for the weight-lift ratio, tend to touch the ground on a banked turn causing the craft to cartwheel.

MANPOWER IS NOT THE PROBLEM. We have the strength to do it. Controlability is the bugaboo.

Paul Poberezny, president of the international Experimental Aircraft Assn. (EAA), reports that one man flew 1,171 yards in a straight line. One made a single 180-degree turn after 90 tries, but crashed on the next try.

But now EAA member Joe Zinno has constructed a frail-looking craft with a 78-foot wing powered by his own feet on pedals linked to a propeller.

IT HAS BEEN CERTIFICATED by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) as an experimental aircraft.

And, in a most unusual public statement, an FAA inspector says, "If any manpowered aircraft appears able to fly, this one does."

I talked to retired Air Force Col. Joe Zinno. He's conservative in his predictions but admittedly "can't wait to see daylight under these wheels!"

"When?"

"As soon as the weather breaks."

Zinno calls his craft "The Olympian." Engineers will want to know that a dual airfoil in the wing produces a high lift inboard and minimizes diving moments outboard. The outer five-foot section of the wing moves by means of a springloaded cable, producing a full wing-tip aileron.

THE EIGHT AND ONE-HALF-FOOT PROP is geared for variable pitch. Drive power is a reciprocating pedal system that's geared to produce 295 r.p.m. for takeoff and 230 r.p.m. for cruise. An enormous rudder should allow "flatter" turns. The skeleton is aluminum tubing. The skin is mylar plastic.

The first hop will be at the abandoned naval air station at Quonset, R.I. The first man to fly in the United States may then and there launch us into a decade during which we all will.

Who's on third?

Politics has so befuddled us of late that we were driven to another handy source of confusion, the dictionary, in a hopeless effort to sort out who believes what.

NO DEMOCRAT, it seems, is a liberal any more. All the penitent liberals (who, our dictionary informs us, sought non-revolutionary progress) have instead become progressives (who according to our dictionary seek liberal reform).

The amorphous group of conservative Democrats aren't conservatives any longer, either. Some have become traditionalists — who, by definition, seek to conserve the established ways of doing things (but all of whom dislike the Establishment).

A second group of lapsed conservatives are now moderates, defined as inhabitants of the political center, while a third group of former conservatives call themselves centrists and are thereby defined as advocates of a moderating political tone.

We can't quite figure out what happened to the moderate Democrats. Some of them, like Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie, are now called liberals.

OTHER FORMER MODERATES, like party chairman Robert Strauss, have become part of the Establishment that the newly moderated conservatives don't like. And a few former moderates, like John Connally, have chucked the whole thing and become Republicans.

Nor do we know just who the populists are.

We used to think the populists were anti-Washington, but that won't work because Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan don't call themselves populists. And we used to think populists were anti-capitalists, but that won't work either because Harris and Wallace, otherwise at odds, are the two strongest advocates of "capitalism" in the Democratic race — though their definitions once again conflict.

Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan are both conservatives, except that Ford is considered a moderate, too, or at least a moderate conservative, while Reagan says he is not an extreme conservative, which makes him a moderate according to our dictionary.

But the liberal Republicans used to call themselves progressives, and we think that's where we came in. — Boston Globe

IT'S CONFUSING, all right. Frankly, most of us don't know who's to bat, certainly not who's on third! However, down here in Texas, anyway, we vote for the fellow who seems to offer the greater hope for (1) peace, (2) good times (3) redemption of human values that have been steadily going down the drain in recent years. It doesn't matter what the fellow is called, a rose by any name smells sweet.

Excerpts from testimony by the coordinator of the Educational Advancement Project in the Rutgers University Extension Division before a Senate subcommittee considering the Lifetime Learning Act introduced by Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota.

The trickle-down, Gerald Ford scheme for job creation is unbalanced and inadequate. If the administration can create tax breaks for big business to create jobs, why can it not provide tax breaks for workers to protect and create jobs as well?

A working person pays taxes, and does not draw on unemployment insurance or welfare benefits. Therefore, I suggest that Section 212(f) of the Internal Revenue Code be changed to allow deductions for persons earning under $20,000 per year for education and training related to career advancement up to $1,000 per year on a sliding scale.

At present, the law only allows deductions for educational activity geared toward the basic maintenance of one's present position. The IRS regulations disallow studying for a new business, trade, or even a substantially different position in the same firm. This discourages the kind of upward mobility urged in other pieces of legislation. The legislation also goes against goals of affirmative action. A businessman can deduct the cost of his Harvard Business School course. His well-educated female secretary taking the same course could not deduct it.

In the case of a worker whose job is in danger of being abolished either for reasons of bankruptcy, reorganization, or the obsolescence of skills, or of a person whose chance for career ladder advancement is grim if existent, or of persons who feel stultified in their jobs, new avenues of training and education may be necessary.

This [tax-relief] proposal could be used by workers to update their skills to maintain their jobs without the narrow definitions of the present hovering over them. Women reentering the labor force could avail themselves of this provision. Enterprising workers would be encouraged to gain the skills to help start businesses of their own and perhaps in a blossom-out fashion hire other people. Productivity gains might be realized from some of this education and training. While it is true that not all workers are more productive if they get more education, it is true with many. In addition, this would stimulate enrollment in institutions of education.

Though President Ford talks about more individual freedom, his job creation programs inhibit personal initiative. Jobs have been relegated to the promises of big business and big government. Meanwhile, small businesses are failing right and left and there is a greater concentration of ownership. Allowing individuals the leeway to create their own credentials and job opportunities spurs the values of independence and entrepreneurship that we adhere to in America.

This is not only a sound policy for the present unemployment crisis, but it is a sound policy generally. The facts are that at present people change jobs six to seven times and major occupational groups one to three times. This is accelerating and we need to prepare for it.

More citizens want and need career development training than ever before. Hence, a balanced program would encourage business and individual initiative for job creation, maintenance, and upgrading.

Tax breaks for workers, too?

DAV unit to visit

Free service to veterans and their families will be available locally when a Field Service Unit of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) visits Austin on March 25 and 26. This is the third consecutive year that one of these 26-foot mobile offices has toured the state in order to provide free counseling and claims service to veterans and their families. The DAV Field Service Unit will be located at the Travis County Courthouse from 10 a. m. until 6 p.m.

The traveling veterans' service facility will be manned by DAV National Service Officers who are fully qualified to assist veterans or their families in filing claims for federal and state benefits to which they are entitled by law — disability compensation, pension, employment, job training, education, hospitalization and medical care, social security, death claims and other matters.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Breaking Up That Old Gang

WASHINGTON — We received a mysterious call recently from a man who identified himself only as "Z." That telephone call led to the break-up of a multimillion-dollar counterfeiting ring. The Secret Service, working with our staff, arrested the ringleaders just as they were preparing to flood Latin America with $10 million in counterfeit $50 bills.

The story would make a great TV mystery. There are some details we still can't reveal. We have to protect the mysterious Mr. "Z." His life could be in danger from members of the gang still at large. But here are the details that can now be told: For reasons that might reveal his identity, "Z" wanted no part of the $10 million counterfeiting scheme. He telephoned us, because he didn't trust the government. He was afraid he might wind up in prison with the counterfeiters.

"Z" told us enough on the telephone to convince us he was no crank caller. He agreed to meet one of our reporters on a street corner in New York City. We sent Howie Kurtz, who waited on the corner with an open red umbrella so "Z" would identify him.

Mr. "Z" told Kurtz about the plan to print $10 million in fake $50 bills. Couriers were waiting, he said, to distribute the bills throughout Central and South America. He said at least $1 million in phony fifties had already been run off the press. As evidence, he gave our reporter three $50 bills, which looked genuine to him.

At this point, they telephoned us from New York City, and we persuaded "Z" to cooperate with the Secret Service.

The next day, our reporter turned over the three $50 bills to the Secret Service, which quickly determined they were counterfeit. In fact, more than $36,000 from the same bogus batch had already turned up this year in Santo Domingo.

Later in the day, we put "Z" himself in touch with the Secret Service. He directed an undercover agent to Miami, where the counterfeiting ring was holed up in a fashionable, $700-a-month house.

We have to leave out some details, but we can report that the agent made contact with the counterfeiters. Posing as an underworld operator, he dickered to buy some of the counterfeit bills.

Not long afterward, $86,000 in fake bills were delivered to a waiting car. The Secret Service immediately arrested the ringleader, Antonio Demetrio Torrez, a printer from the Dominican Republic. Arrested with him were two Puerto Ricans, Jose Davila and Humberto Acosta.

The Secret Service also confiscated the negatives that Torrez was using to print the counterfeit millions. Torrez still has no idea how the Secret Service nailed him.

"The Rainmaker": The most effective lobbyist on Capitol Hill today is William Timmons. He is known in the backrooms as "The Rainmaker" because he has been able to produce a downpour of benefits for his clients.

Timmons learned the ins and outs of Capitol Hill as a White House lobbyist for former President Richard Nixon. After Nixon's fall, Timmons set up his own consulting firm. Lobbyists never like to call themselves lobbyists. So they call themselves consultants instead.

Timmons is an unlikely rainmaker. He has a middle American look; there is nothing suave about him. He never uses high pressure. He's just friendly, easygoing, skilled at the "soft sell."

Most importantly, he knows the right people — on the Republican side. Now he has hired House Speaker Carl Albert's top aide, Michael Reed, to take care of the Democratic side.

For years, Reed has literally sat outside the Speaker's door and has dealt personally with the Democratic Congressmen.

A few weeks ago, Reed became involved in the natural gas pricing battle. The Speaker bent the House rules to see that a bill, deregulating natural gas prices, reached the floor for a vote.

Now his top aide, Michael Reed, has gone to work for "The Rainmaker," whose clients include such natural gas outfits as Standard Oil of Indiana, the Alabama Gas Corporation, Atlanta Gas and Light, the Natural Gas Supply Committee and Connecticut Natural Gas, to name just a few.

Reed insisted to our associate, Jack Cloberty, that there was no connection. Reed said he did not use his position in Albert's office to help the natural gas clients that now employ him.

But there are those on Capitol Hill who wonder, in any event. That's the way the legislative clouds are opened on Capitol Hill.

Shuttle Shortcomings: It looks as if the proposed space shuttle may cost far more than the original estimate.

Worse, it may endanger the environment.

These are the confidential findings of the General Accounting Office. We have seen the confidential report, and we believe the public is entitled to know what it says.

The space shuttle has already cost over $3 billion. The report estimates that, in the development stage alone, the cost overrun will be more than $1 billion. States the confidential report:

"The probable outcome will be increased cost and reduced performance, coupled with a longer period of uncertainty as to whether the space shuttle can reliably carry out its... mission."

The report also claims the space agency underestimated the effects of the sonic booms, which the space shuttle will cause. These could dangerously deplete the earth's ozone layer, the report warns.

Taxing the Tipsters: Stool pigeons for the FBI, Justice Department and other agencies get paid for their information, but rarely do they claim their clandestine income on their tax returns. Not so with stoolies for the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS insists that its informants always pay taxes on their secret salaries, and the tax men thoroughly examine their returns every year to see that they do.

Junked Junket: At the Interior Department, the new public affairs chief, Lou Churchill, recently drew up plans to get his subordinates together for a conference. The scheme called for 50 or 60 public affairs officers to gather in New Orleans. There was even a convenient excuse: Interior Secretary Tom Kleppe would be there at the same time, and he could speak to his spokesmen.

But, believe it or not, a number of bureaucrats rebelled at the boondoggle. Result: the trip was cancelled and about 15,000 taxpayers' dollars were saved.

AUSTIN — The Texas Medical Association is rattling a menacing saber.

It is a warning that medical care may not be available at any price if something isn't done about the rising costs and availability of medical liability insurance.

It is an ominous prospect — life without old Dr. Feelgood. And it is unlikely that that would ever happen, because the Huge Hermano in Washington would probably intervene.

But it sure helps the TMA make its point about the sickening malpractice situation.

If you have called on old Dr. Feelgood lately, then you know that the price of medical care has certainly increased.

That's because the good doctor wants to protect you from illness, but at the same time he wants to protect himself from a potential lawsuit.

So he orders more x-rays than he would have in the past, and up goes your bill.

He delegates less authority to nurses and technicians, and up goes your bill.

More consultations are made, and up goes your bill.

Mrs. C. L. Blakemore wants to leave no doubt about the efficiency of the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Department's handling of a blaze at the Buccaneer Apartments on March 10.

Firemen responded to a 3 a.m. call there on that date to find Apt. 102 in flames and the occupant suffering from smoke inhalation. The SUN carried a story on the fire in the Sunday, March 14 issue quoting a source who said the fire department took 15 or 20 minutes to get to the apartment complex, a time factor the firemen promptly corrected to "more like three or four minutes."

Mrs. Blakemore, next door neighbor of the fire victim, called this week to confirm the fire department's correction.

"I would like to verify that it did not take the Georgetown firemen 15 or 20 minutes to get here," said Mrs. Blakemore. "I was the one who reported the fire, and within moments after I called, they were out here. I think they deserve recognition for a job well done."

Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. met in Nell Tate Garden Center in Waco, March 11, for the spring meeting of District V, with 168 members present, including state president, Mrs. Lee Coil of Lubbock. Those attending from the Georgetown Club were Mrs. Burl Brooks, Mrs. W. K. McClain, and Mrs. F. W. Buchanan.

The Georgetown Garden Club received an award for Honorable Mention for the yearbook. The program was given by Mrs. Rodney Radford, nationally accredited flower show instructor and judge. Unusual containers were used in her flower arranging demonstration.

RETURNING HOME — Sweetbriar personnel and First Baptist Church Acteens help Sweetbriar residents load the bus to return home following their trip to see "Alice in Wonderland" Sunday.

Acteens treat residents to outing

Acteens is "teenagers in action." It is an organization for junior high and high school age girls. Boys who want to participate in mission projects and the study missions around the world are welcome. The group at First Baptist Church is not limited to "Baptists only." We have several Catholic and Methodist who are members and everyone in the community is welcome to join! We meet every Wednesday evening, 7 to 8 at the "Sycamore Tree," Main Street, First Baptist Church. The latest mission project was instigated by Missy Kingery who does volunteer work at Sweetbriar. Her idea was to get some of the residents out for a Sunday afternoon at the theater to see "Alice in Wonderland." In order to do this, we had to raise the money to pay for their tickets. Money-making projects included a car wash and bake sale, with enough money for 34 residents to attend. First Baptist Youth led by Paul Sutton, Youth Director, also volunteered to help with the actual transporting of the people from Sweetbriar on the church bus to the play and back. James Chambers, active among First Baptist ministry among the Senior Citizens, very willingly assisted as bus driver. Mrs. Mary Ann Lanthier, Tim Cummins, Bonnie Buckner, and Jeanne Snead helped, along with Acteen members, Lisa Ramsey Wendy and Rich Chambers, Karen Hays, Karen King, Lynn Cockroft, Susan Andrews and Janet Holscher. Mrs. Al Cummins and Mrs. James Hamilton are the Adult leaders for the group. Mrs. Hamilton's daughters, Holly and Haley also lent their assistance to the activity. Those who work at Sweetbriar who went deserve our heartfelt thanks for making it all possible. They are David, Helen and Ronnie Sandefur, Belinder Hill, Mrs. Homerzell Hatley, Elsie and Jackie Dixon, Ruth Wolbrueck, Mamie Ruth and Kimberly Richter and Ann Hodge. Residents who attended are Annie Cole, Ester Haas, Rachael Everett, Beatrice Roundtree, Zula Creamer, Ruby Stewart, Madelyn Fischer, Laura Huckabee, Bennie Calvin, Carlos Roblez, Sam Nunnelee, Arch Davidson, Harry Neal, Binto Osuna, Frank Anderson, Ollis Andrews, Virgil Davis, Leta Horton, Catherine Hardin, Howard Wilson, Sadie McDaniel, Grace Pennington, Almon Wilson, Mamie Taylor, Alena King, May Williams, Julia Setliff, Shirley Merkord and Grace Daniel.

Dr. Schachtel speaks at SU chapel service

Dr. Hyman Schachtel, Chief Rabbi of the Congregation Beth Israel in Houston, will speak at Southwestern University at Georgetown on Thursday.

Dr. Schachtel will speak in the regular chapel services at 9:30 a.m. in Lois Perkins Chapel, and he will then speak to a New Testament Bible Class at 10:30 that morning.

A well known lecturer who has spoken from coast to coast on national radio and TV, Dr. Schachtel has a regular weekly radio program in Houston and his column "Enjoyment of Life" appears Saturdays in a number of newspapers.

He will be returning to Southwestern where the University presented him with an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree in 1955.

He has a Doctor's degree in Education from Columbia University and from the

On January 20, 1965, Dr. Schachtel delivered the Inaugural Prayer at the Inauguration of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

He has served on the Governor's Committee for Texas on Human Relations and was chairman of the Subcommittee on Education.

He has been a lecturer and instructor at St. Mary's Seminary, a summer lecturer at the University of St. Thomas, and is presently a lecturer for the Jewish Chautauqua Society at the University of Houston.

He has written several books including "The Real Enjoyment of Living" (1954), "The Life You Want to Live" (1956), "The Shadowed Valley" (1962), and "The Facts of Life and the Challenge of Death" (1974).

A board member of the Houston Symphony Society, Dr. Schachtel has also composed liturgical music for the Temple and for special worship services.

Mrs. Jack (Katy Lou) Murray of Kerrville, and Jim Bob Gallaway of Seattle, Washington, were recent guests in the home of their mother, Mrs. Clara Gallaway, in Georgetown. Gallaway was enroute to Seattle from Boston, Massachusetts, where he had been among speakers at the biennial national staff conference of United Way of America. More than 1200 delegates from the United States and Canada attended the conference. Gallaway is director of public relations of the United Way of King County, Seattle. Mrs. Murray is a teacher in the public school system in Kerrville.

STAPLE HERE — If you would like to try making your own kite, you will find it quite simple. Scott, 13, tries it step-by-step with a few directions from his father, Ray Janke of Bartlett, a kite maker and enthusiast from childhood. "I've never had a bought kite," Ray recalls. "The kids have, but I just never did. We took flour and water and made our own paste and everything. We could have bought them, I guess, but we made our own and saved our own paste and everything. We could have bought them, I guess, but we made our own and saved our money for something else." The first step when making your own kite, Ray tells Scott, is making the frame. The Jankes used screen mold, split to reduce the weight. Quarter-inch dowel rods, light but somewhat stronger than the screen mold, can be purchased in 36-inch lengths from lumber stores. The sticks, one slightly shorter than the other, are crossed and fastened together. Notch the ends so a string can be slipped into the notches during the next step.

Mrs. Johnnie H. Mason had Mrs. R. B. Schnabel of San Antonio (formerly Frankie Jo Mason of Georgetown) as her weekend guest. Mrs. O. A. Funker of San Antonio also visited in the Mason home.

agriculture education major at Tarleton State University, has been assigned to Comanche High School as a student teacher for the spring semester.

Rosenbusch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rosenbusch of Florence.

Gary Rosenbusch, a senior

WE'VE GOT TO get this string tight," Ray solicits help from Scott and little sister, Amy, 9. Ray uses the string not only to support the paper, but also to straighten the frame in case the staples leave it wobbly. "Nylon string will cut your paper," Ray cautions. He recommends using fishing string, but not the clear, thin nylon type. "They make other kinds of fishing string, some green nylon cord that's heavier." "Scott," his mother, Ruth asks, "are you going to build that kite, or is Daddy?" Scott's reply, as "Daddy" ties and clips and plans: "He's helping."

IN CASE OF RAIN, cozy up next to the fireplace, as the Janke's older daughter Sharon does, and plan to enjoy making the kite as a family project. Here Scott pencils the string outline on the back of the kite paper, aided by lazy looks from Sharon, Amy and a few family dolls. Next, he will cut the paper slightly larger than the outline so the paper can be folded back over the string and glued to the frame. Trimming the paper also lessens the overall weight of the kite. "But get that paper good and tight," Ray advises. "Glue is probably better," Ruth decides, "but we used to use paste. Now they don't know what paste is."

Ever make your own kite?

DON'T FORGET — the tail! Ray snips an overlong tail for Scott's kite, which will be entered in his church youth group-sponsored kite flying contest scheduled for whenever the Sunday afternoon rain lets up. When the two try out the kite, they will determine how long a tail it needs and cut it there.

IT'S A POSTER-KITE — Scott holds the kite to show the relative length of the harness to the size of the kite. Kite string is tied to the harness to keep the kite from being whirled away and falling to the ground. "I think that makes a cute kite, for a homemade one and a poster," Ruth compliments her son's choice of paper. "I used to use newspaper on mine when I was a boy," Ray tells. "We didn't have any other paper that big."

GACT seeks cast for spring melodrama

Attention all high-class heroes and heroines and all low-class villains and crooks (male and female)! Georgetown Area Community Theater (GACT) is holding tryouts for this season's melodrama.

The play, "A Fate Worse Than Death or Adrift on Life's Sea" is set in the elegant Ramsgate Mansion known as The Crossroad in the early 1900's. Elegant period costumes will be worn by henpecked Rodney and dowager Felicia Ramsgate.

The haughty Dorthia Ramsgate (attention Bette Davis types) and her pouty, two-faced friend are too spoiled for words. Into this happy home comes Casius, the sneery, sinister con-man; his river rat sidekick, Cokey Joe, the lowest of the low; and Marie, alias Memphis Mazy, the purported French maid. As dead bodies begin to abound, a detective, a secretary and Dorthia's old nurse enter.

As for the hero and heroine, how about Carlotta Flower and Burgess Lendahand. Carlotta is sweetness and light, a young lady trying to make her way as a singer. Burgess is the manly, rustic, stable hand who saves the day. Besides cast, crews are definitely needed.

All persons interested in trying out for parts or joining one of the crews should come to the theater at 601 Austin Avenue, March 22, 23 and 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Applicants for audience are requested to make reservations when box office number is announced. Newcomers are greeted with open arms.

AND IT'S UP — Scott won the prize for having the best homemade kite at the kite flying contest in Bartlett. Hope your kite project turns out as lucky.

Donald Arbuckle, Cindy Farrow, Roslyn Johnson, Linda Pate, Debra DeDear, Peter Grayson, Arlene Landry and

Mary Pate, all of Georgetown, are currently enrolled at Mary Hardin-Baylor College for the spring semester.

"Where Quality Is Always A Good Buy"

Go fly a kite!

by Nel Perkys Ruined.
And I'd thought it would be so easy.

"Just hold the string and I'll run until we get that kite flying high," I had told the little girl at the other end of the string.

Gracefully I held the kite aloft and ran through the wind. But the result, an ominous ripping sound, signaled disaster. Andy my "grace" instantly turned to clumsy surprise.

Nine-year-old Amy's bright yellow kite had become bright yellow shreds.

ALL THE BOOKS advise "running in an open space" with the kite to "produce wind by its speed through the air."

"The books" don't say it makes a difference where you run.

You have to run with the wind — not into it.

I was crushed — but Amy knew just what to do.

"Daddy!" she cried, "Nel broke my kite."

How awful: she had told all. Luckily, "Daddy" — Lonnie Ray Janke of Bartlett — was just the person to call. He has been flying kites for years, and can make a homemade kite for you to fly while he gives you every kiting pointer you'll need.

Besides all his expertise, "Daddy" just happened to have another kite stashed in the car, waiting for such an emergency.

KITE FLYING really can be easy, given a grasp of the fundamentals. You'll even see such bold two-year-olds as Alex Faris of Georgetown out with one of the easy-to-fly "bat" kites. Of course, you'll also see his mother Chris assisting. Alex knows the value of experience, even if it is not his own.

Kiting seems to be one of those versatile sports that can be peaceful, exciting, fun alone, fun with a group, competitive, restful and/or educational.

Although kite flying is frequently classed as a children's game in America, it is a very adult occupation in other parts of the world. And it is catching on as an adult pastime in such places as New York and California, where kite specialty shops seem to be cropping up everywhere.

KITE FIGHTING is popular in Thailand and India, where the object of the highly competitive team sport is to down the other team's kite.

In Thailand, kite fighting is a major league sport. There the diamond-shaped pakpao is flown by one team, the star-shaped chula by the other.

"The superior speed and maneuverability of the smaller pakpaos often enable them to defeat the larger chulas," Compton's Encyclopedia tells those of us who are not quite up on the intricacies of Thai kite fighting.

In India the object of the sport is to cut the string of the opponent's kite. For this purpose the kite string is coated with ground glass. Similarly, the frames of fighting kites flown in South America may sport razor blades for the same purpose.

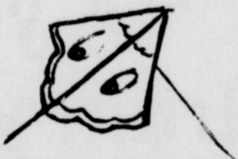

If you don't go in for ground glass and razor blades, you still can take up kite fighting. Triangular devices through which the string is held can be bought to help maneuver your kite to swirl and bump into an opponent's. Or, if you're really good, try twisting your wrist or arm as you hold the string to see how much you can control the kite by yourself.

EVEN IF YOU prefer just seeing how high you can make that kite fly, kiting need not be a solitary sport.

Amy and Ray were among a group of 30 laughing, yelling, excited "kids" who met at St. John Lutheran Church in Bartlett to compete in a kite flying contest.

Sponsored by the high school-age Luther Leaguers there, the contest had a 25-cent registration fee. But it was a day when everybody won.

Ray won the "oldest kiter" prize, even though he is not the graybeard oldster Leaguers had hoped for.

And little Pamela Spiegelhauer proved you can't start young enough. She not only got the prize for being the youngest kite flier there, but rivaled her teen-age cousin Gary Spiegelhauer by nearly having the highest flying kite.

Gary took top honors there as he used about 1,250 feet of string to keep a large bat kite soaring.

"I won; I won," shouted Pamela, perched atop the shoulders of her friend Jill Steglich. Jill, a member of the League, did help Pamela hold the string, but the victory was all Pam's.

Other prizes went to the largest kite — about four feet from tip to tip, and to the smallest: Ray's two-inch beauty that would only fly with several times that much string and lightweight tail.

Ray's 13-year-old son Scott won the prize for having the best homemade kite, the kite shown being put together in the pictures accompanying this "hidden pleasures" feature.

Kiting makes everyone a winner.

HOW CAN YOU best spend one of Williamson County's perfect spring afternoons afloat with a kite?

First, don't wait for a typical gusty March day.

Even on a calm day, running with a kite in a wide open space should soon have the aerial toy sailing satisfactorily aloft.

And Ray advises, "You don't need to run with it if the wind is strong enough. Running with it like that will drive it down and wreck it."

The best wind for kite flying is a steady breeze. Stronger winds or sudden gusts may drive the kite to the ground before it has a chance to rise to a safe height.

Any flat kite must have a tail for balance.

"It's better to tie on more tail than you need," says veteran kiter Ray. "That way you don't tear up your kite. Then you can just tear off the excess."

Get the kite aloft. Then, as it hovers slightly weighted by the tail, cut off the tail near the ground. Your kite should soon soar as high as the length of your string will allow.

"The stronger the wind the more tail you can get on them. If you don't have a strong wind the tail will weight them too much," Ray said.

WHAT ABOUT the knots you see in the tail of every kite? Do they add extra balance?

"Knots don't do anything," Ray laughs. "All the knots are for is to keep the pieces together."

ALL EYES — Hunter Faris examines his momentarily grounded kite — as the kite stares back. Hunter found that just about anyone can fly a kite, if he doesn't let those eyes scare him away first.

You will probably have better luck if you try flying a kite atop a gently sloping grassy hill where winds usually are stronger.

The lightweight plastic bat kites, pictured here, seemed to take a lot of top prizes at the contest. They were easier to get aloft, and flew steadily higher, melting into tiny dots in the sky.

Get your kite from any time store at this time of year, when kiting seems most popular. Prices range from 19 to 25 cents up to several dollars for a really special design. And don't forget to buy several balls of string; you may be surprised at how fast your kite climbs.

Or, make your own. We've included pictured instructions on the next page.

WHICHEVER KIND of kite you choose, be sure to follow this World Book Encyclopedia "kiter's code":

— Do not use metal in making a kite, because it might attract lightning.

— Never fly a kite near telephone wires, high-voltage wires, or transmission towers.

— Do not fly a kite in a thunderstorm because of the danger of being struck by lightning.

— A kite should not be flown on rainy days, since a wet kite string is a conductor of electricity.

Happy kiting!

Chamber manager Gene Martinka said Atkinson's Lock and Key, the Driftwood Gallery, Johnson's Sale Agency-Montgomery Ward, Johnson's Body Shop, Bouffard Transfer and Storage, Calvin Jordan Electric Company, San Gabriel Meat Company, and Farmer's State Bank of Round Rock have been added to the membership list.

"THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE is an organization of individuals and businesses working with its members and the public to serve the best interests of all concerned," he explained. "The Chamber promotes Georgetown and the businesses in Georgetown and advertises, whenever possible, for its members."

Everette Williams, who with Bill Luedecke heads the Chamber Membership Committee, said, "We sent letters to businesses and individuals we knew were not members of the Chamber, explaining its purposes. We also enclosed some literature we hope they will read, and representatives from the Membership Committee will drop in on each business and individual to meet them."

Martinka said the Chamber has set a goal of 50 new business members for 1976.

DUES are $24 annually for individuals, $50 annually for businesses with up to three employees. Additional yearly dues are charged for each additional employee over three.

The membership drive will continue through March, with information available from the Chamber office, 103 W. Ninth St., or from Membership Committee members Williams, Luedecke, Larry Rosenblad, Paul Williams, Don Hewett, Joe Long, Herb Hanson, Gary Seaman, Dave Mountain, or John Gamble.

Country Fair announced

The Georgetown Chamber of Commerce and the Georgetown Bicentennial Committee will sponsor the area's first Country Fair on Friday, July 2.

It will be held in the San Gabriel Park occupying the Community Center, the livestock pens, and the west end of the park.

This first fair is being held as part of the area's Bicentennial Celebration; it is hoped that it will become an annual affair.

The fair will have eight judged divisions: flowers and plants, needlework, fruits and vegetables, baked goods, canned foods, arts and crafts, field crops and clothing. There will also be three non-judged divisions: equipment exhibit, antique display and animal and poultry display. Both judged and non-judged divisions will have junior (under 18 years of age) and adult classifications. Each category will have first, second and third place ribbons.

The Country Fair welcomes entrants from Williamson and all surrounding counties.

As of April 15 a complete rule book will be available. This will be distributed in various businesses and offices in the area. Deadline for entries will be 9 a.m. Friday July 2.

For general information, please contact the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce at (512) 863-2251.

TWO POINTS FOR ROTARY. A height advantage helps James Crowder to put up this jump shot over stretching Barton Crawford to score two points for the Rotary team. Others in the picture are left, Joe Johnson of Kiwanis and Barry Barksdale of Kiwanis.

TOUGH DEFENSE like that being demonstrated by Barton Crawford helped the Kiwanis team to win the sixth grade championship. However, good ball handlers like Gilbert Valdez enabled Rotary to make a tight game out of it. Kiwanis won 23-19.

Mrs. Bill Golson hosts Xi Mu Rho chapter meeting

Xi Mu Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met March 16 at the home of Mrs. Bill Golson.

The cultural program, "Never Underestimate the Power of a Woman," was given by Mrs. Jack Sansom and Mrs. Joyce Landry, the objective being to encourage awareness of the unique power each woman has. Mrs. Sansom discussed the life of Lady Bird Johnson from an article written by Liz Carpenter.

New officers elected for the coming year were, Mrs. Ray Ragsdale, president; Mrs. Jack Sansom, vice president; Mrs. Harold Peschel, recording secretary; Mrs. Joyce Landry, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Victor Don Knauth, treasurer and Mrs. Douglas Frazier, extension officer.

After the business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Golson.

GEORGETOWN PRODUCTS — Gene Lawhon, left, and Ronnie Maynard are both helping the Southwestern University Pirates get off to one of their best starts in history this season. Both freshmen have seen action this season, Lawhon as a third baseman and Maynard as a catcher. Maynard has been at bat 20 times and has a .250 average, and as a catcher has 36 put-outs and seven assists.

Pirate sports action gets rolling — again

After a week's vacation from competition, some of it enforced by weather, Southwestern University's sports teams get back in action after the school's spring break.

And local baseball fans will have an opportunity to really see the Pirates in action with eight games slated in Georgetown's San Gabriel Park during the week.

The Pirate golf team was the only group seeing action during the week as they participated in the Lago Vista tournament March 17-19. No results of that meet were available at press time.

Southwestern's baseball team off to one of its best starts in history with 16 wins and only five losses, will get back in action Saturday with its first conference games with formidable East Texas Baptist, which has a 10-2 record of its own. The Bucs were rained out of two double-headers last weekend.

And the men's tennis team will return to conference trail as it faces St. Mary's in San Antonio Tuesday afternoon.

BASEBALL
"If we can beat East Texas Baptist, I believe we'll have a strong run at the conference championship," said baseball Coach Jim Mallon on the eve of his trip to Marshall Saturday. Mallon said that he hoped the inaction of his team did not hurt their play too much. "We haven't even been able to practice in Georgetown because of the high school tournament going on here," he said.

The Buc were to have played Trinity in a double-header here last Saturday and then they had a trip to Dallas Sunday for games with the University of Dallas. But rain and cold cancelled both outings.

Garry Ivy, strong right-handed pitcher who was one of the most consistent on the mound last season, will start the first game against the East Texans, Mallon said. He had not decided who would start the second game.

Success of the team has come from good hitting (eight hitting more than .300), strong pitching (including a no-hit, no-run effort by Rick Tobolka), and a "real will to win," says Mallon.

Fielding errors have been one of the weak points, but Mallon feels this will improve as the season continues.

After the conference double-header with East Texas Baptist in Marshall, the Bucs will not have another conference game until March 27 when they play St. Mary's in San Antonio.

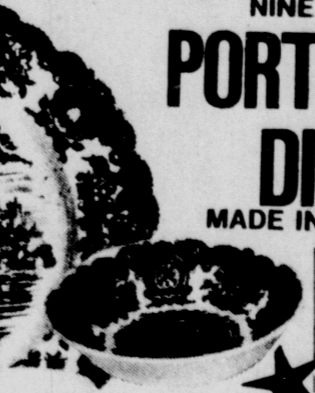

Eight non-conference games will be sandwiched between those league contests, all slated for the San Gabriel Park in Georgetown. This includes double-headers with Mary-Hardin Baylor Monday, March 22; with Hardin-Simmons Tuesday, with Wartburg College Wednesday, and with Augustana College Thursday.

Weather permitting, it will be an excellent opportunity for local fans to see the Pirates in action.

GOLF
Southwestern's golf team got its expected good performance from Mark Coward last week in a three-way match with St. Ed's and Huston-Tillotson — but it also got some surprisingly strong play from Jerry Birkelbach.

Both players came up tied for medalist honors with 68 scores on the Southwestern links, and Birkelbach won the sudden-death play-off for the medalist prize on the first hole.

Southwestern changes name of political science chair

The name of the John Goodwin Tower Chair of Political Science at Southwestern University has been changed.

The change came at a recent meeting of the University's Board of Trustees when Senator Tower, a member of that board, made a motion that the name be changed to the Tower-Hester Chair of Political Science.

"I believe that excellence in teaching should be recognized," Tower said.

"George Hester has touched the lives of two generations in Texas. The enormous impact he has made on the minds and hearts of those he influenced can never be measured."

The Senator has said many times that Dr. Hester had a great impact on his own life and aspirations when Tower was a student at Southwestern.

Dr. Hester started teaching at Southwestern in 1926 specializing in the fields of political science and Texas history until his retirement in 1965. Even following that he continued teaching Texas history until 1970 when he decided to leave the classroom for good.

"I changed the name of the course from political science to government because I didn't believe it had any science in it," Hester laughs. "Now the name is back to political science."

Dr. Hester had a break in his teaching career when he was elected to the Texas Legislature in 1933. He had not finished his first term when he received a letter from Franklin D. Roosevelt asking him to come to Washington as an advisor.

"I was there 10 days after he was inaugurated, and I stayed three years," Hester said.

He advised the Senate Finance Committee, and said that one of the most difficult experiences was when the Senate was working on its bills to regulate holding companies. Many of the projects on which

Dr. Hester worked laid the groundwork for some of the sweeping reforms of FDR.

In a similar capacity as economic consultant, Dr. Hester served the Texas Association of Commerce (three regional Chambers of Commerce) from 1948-60, and he was counselor for the U. S. Chamber from 1938-1940. He was also an advisor to Lyndon B. Johnson on a less formal basis.

In the civic and political field, Dr. Hester served as Mayor of Georgetown (1946-48), as a member of the Governor's Commission on Constitutional Revision (1957-61), and a member of the Governor's Citizens' Advisory Commission on Revenue and Taxation (1960).

Experiences like these helped Dr. Hester pass on to such students as John Tower more than just the "book-learning" of the course. Many of those students caught a lifetime interest in government and politics.

Dr. Hester remembers that "my students all over the state came to the support of John Tower when I worked on his campaign in 1960."

Dr. Hester wrote a book, "State and Local Government in Texas" (1960; McMillan) in which Tower contributed a chapter on political power.

He recalls that Tower told him following a conference on the book, "The next time you see me I will be a candidate for U.S. Senator."

So Dr. Hester along with Mrs. Dan Moody chaired the State Campaign for Tower that first time — and the Southwestern University graduate won.

Dr. Hester said that this was the only time he had actively engaged in a statewide political campaign. It was another firsthand experience that enhanced the value of his teaching at Southwestern.

Dr. Hester had been in-

DR. GEORGE HESTER, who taught more than two generations of Southwestern University students about government and Texas history, makes a point with former student U. S. Senator John Tower at a recent meeting in Georgetown. The two men now have an endowed chair in political science named in their honor.

terested in the changing attitudes and goals of students through the years, and he feels that today's student appears to be a serious-minded one. "The teachers seem to be doing a good job, too," he says.

Brought to Southwestern University to fill the endowed chair named in honor of George Hester and John Tower is Dr. Francis O'Brien, a distinguished scholar who has proven to be a popular teacher in his own right.

When the chair was inaugurated at Southwestern a year ago, A. Frank Smith, vice chairman of the University's Board of Trustees, emphasized the value of endowed professorship:

"I believe that the study of political science under the distinguished professors who will fill the chair year after year and generation after generation will give our students a maturity of judgment and an understanding of the way our government functions that they could not obtain in any other manner."

Dr. George Hester has done

just that for "generation after generation" himself. Now those who will be carrying on his work will be doing it through an endowment that bears his name.

Burgled goods recovered

The Sheriff's Office reported some items recovered this week from a burglary of the Circle Store which occurred on March 10.

The following items were returned to the Sheriff's Office after they were recovered on FM 2340 half a mile east of County Road 281 in Burnet County: an adding machine, a computer, three pairs of gloves, six butcher knives, three transistor batteries, two cigarette lighters, a teaspoon, 100 envelopes, and a vinyl patch.

Carlo Kilp exhibits African art at SU

Housed in the Gallery of the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Center at Southwestern University is the first public exhibit of African art from the collection of Carlo Kilp of Austin.

The public may view this exhibit through March 31, announces Claude Kennard, art historian and director of the Gallery in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University.

Kilp, whose extensive and varied collection is housed mainly in Guanajuato, Mexico, and in Austin, is a scholarly and active collector on the international scene. He has provided important specimens for museums and major private collections in several countries.

Mainly interested in the art of Africa, Kilp's European origin and Mexican and Texan backgrounds, as well as his extensive travels and residence in various parts of the world, have afforded this connoisseur a rich experience and profound knowledge extending into Latin-American colonial art and specific areas of European art, too.

This exhibit at Southwestern University offers a significant range and variety of African sculpture in various media, mainly wood, bronze, shells, beadwork and fibers. Most of the objects are woodcarvings, masks, and figures of ritual significance. The exhibit is presented at this time in connection with a current course in African studies being offered jointly by Southwestern University and Huston-Tillotson College of Austin.

Principal cultures represented in the exhibit are Ashanti, Benin, Marka, Yoruba, Adouma, Bakota, Senufo, Dagon, Baule, Dan, Baurbana and Bakundu.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

Due to all of the increased activity in and around our community with the new businesses on Main Street, Liberty Hill Market Day on the first Saturday of each month, Liberty Hill Arts and Crafts Fair which starts March 20, and all of the other going on, there will be many visitors coming in. Each of us should feel the obligation to help insure our community will always put its best foot forward to be a pleasant, wholesome place in which everyone will enjoy being for an hour or for a day. We must remember that our community will be what we make it.

All of you Sunday readers who got the SUN in this morning's mail are reminded this is the big day for Liberty Hill Arts and Crafts Fair I. If you aren't already there or planning to go, be sure to make the show before the day is over. You can expect many of your friends and neighbors to be taking in the displays of creative ingenuity. We know there will be something for everyone, whether you are just looking, displaying or buying. We hope to see you there.

Tonight, March 20, there will be an old-fashioned box supper on the football field at 7:30. Just like in the old days, the suppers will be auctioned off to the highest bidder. This is one type of activity from the past that should prove to be enjoyable even now, "in the jet age." Be sure to come and do your part in the continuing effort of the Liberty Hill Band Parents to outfit our band members in new uniforms.

The April 10 Variety Show of The Panther Band Parents' Club is still several days away but it is not too early for all of you talented people to start making plans to be on the program. Please contact Hazel Williams by phone at 778-5132 or write to box 274 in Liberty Hill.

A beginners tennis clinic for children between the ages of 10 and 15 years will be held at the Liberty Hill School beginning Sunday afternoon, April 4, and continuing for six-weeks from 2 to 3:30 p.m. each Sunday afternoon. The registration fee will be $3 for each student to help defray the expenses. There will be no strenuous court activity during this clinic, but each student is expected to practice during his spare time. The only equipment that will be required is tennis shoes and a racket; of course, shorts and light shirts or blouses are recommended but not required. Every student is expected to exhibit good behavior, and no disruptive behavior will be tolerated by the instructor.

Applications for The Liberty Hill Tennis Clinic can be obtained at the Liberty Hill High School office.

The menu for the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria for the week of March 22 through 26, reads as follows: Monday — Pizza, green beans, salad, fruit and milk; Tuesday — Sloppy Joes, french fries, salad, peanut butter crunch and milk; Wednesday — Student Holiday; Thursday — Student Holiday; Friday — Tuna casserole, English peas, carrots, ice cream and milk.

We are sorry to hear that Coach Moffitt has been ill, and we are trusting that he will be back by the time of our next writing. The Liberty Hill High School Varsity Baseball Team will go to Austin March 22, to play the Westlake Junior Varsity at 4 p.m. and on Thursday, March 25, our Panthers will host The Pflugerville Panthers at home at 4 p.m. in the afternoon — If at all possible plan to attend these games!

Just last Tuesday Nita Dockery of Florence was in downtown Liberty Hill shopping at The Main Street Emporium and at Liberty Hill Feed and Seed. Nita said, "It's fun to go to Liberty Hill now." Certainly, we agree.

I was pleased to get a letter from one of our Cedar Park friends a couple of days ago. She can be sure that a spirit of good will prevails throughout our community and she will always find that our town has a big heart. We hope that she will continue to be among the throngs who come to Liberty Hill on Market Day, The Liberty Hill Arts and Crafts Fair or any day.

All letters are appreciated, and they will all be personally acknowledged.

It was really good to see Henry Partlow and Mrs. Smith when they came by last Wednesday.

We'll leave you today with this line — "If everyone would light just one little candle, what a bright world this would be." KEEP SMILING!

Patrolman, dispatcher join PD

Two additions to the Georgetown police force have brought it to full strength.
Michael Charles Loney, a former Taylor police officer, began work as a patrolman for the department this week.

Loney, 23, has three and a half years law enforcement experience. He and his wife will make their home in Georgetown.

Minnie Lee King of 407 W.
Morrow St. will work as a dispatcher for the PD. Originally from Florence, she is a graduate of Jarrell High School.

The police force is now up to six patrolmen and four dispatchers.

THE COUNTY FOOD SHOW will be held Saturday, March 27.
Judging will begin at 10 a.m. at the Thrall School Cafeteria.

4-H'ERS - a copy of the recipe and "Are You a Good Eater?"
are due in the office March 22.
MAKE YOUR CALENDARS
FOR JUNE 16-22. This is the date of the 4-H Exchange Program with Madison County, Tennessee. Williamson County will travel to Tennessee this summer and we will host them in the summer of 1977. 4-H Club members must be 13 years of age by January 1, 1976 to participate. The 4-H Exchange Committee will screen all applicants. Make your reservations immediately! For more information call 863-2318.

THE WILLIAMSON
COUNTY 4-H RIFLE CON-
TEST will be held Sunday,
March 28, at the old Oil Mill Building in Georgetown, beginning at 1:30 p.m.
Georgetown and Granger Clubs are scheduled to shoot first at 1:30 p.m., followed by Leander and Round Rock Clubs at 2:30 p.m., and Jonah, Taylor and Schwertner Clubs at 3:30 p.m.
We will provide targets, NRA
No. A-17 targets will be used (11 Bullseye). You will be shooting from a distance of 50 ft. with any .22 caliber rimfire catalogued as the "22 short,"
"22 long," "22 long rifle," loaded one round at a time, except semi-automatic rifles.
Seniors will shoot in each of three positions - (1) Prone, (2) Standing, and (3) Kneeling, in that order. Junior contestants will be required to shoot only in the prone position. Each contestant will be expected to bring his own rifle and ammunition, at least fifty (50) rounds per contestant for sighting and for score. All targets will be scored upon completion of shooting. We will use the top four scores in the Senior Division and the top four scores in the Junior Division to select the two teams which will represent Williamson County in the District Competition April 3.

HOW 4-H BEGAN - The 4-H program grew out of a widespread need in America in the early 1900's. Corn, pig, tomato, and canning clubs were forerunners. Among the pioneer leaders were school teachers and other educators who wanted a "living laboratory" to supplement their classrooms.
Finally in 1914, Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act which provided for a national Cooperative Extension Service.
Under it, the "boys' and girls' club work" became 4-H.
About one in every six men and women in the United States had belonged to 4-H.

Tim Evans
Drawing of a 2 1/2-inch parliament butt.

By Russell Baker

The following is a story about what happens when you try to replace something that is old. It was written by Russell Baker of the New York Times and is reprinted by permission from his "Sunday Observer" column in the New York Times Sunday Magazine. The story is tacked up on a bulletin board at San Francisco Victoriana, a restoration and supply company in that city (PN, January 1974). It was sent by a friend of the owners who knew that the firm makes and sells a 2-1/2-inch parliament butt, the thing that caused Baker the trouble in the first place.

I needed something they didn't make any more. It was a hinge of the type called a 2-1/2-inch parliament butt.

I suspected they didn't make it any more. Once they find out they are making something you might need one of these days, they immediately call the factory and tell them not to make it any more.

The hardware salesman looked grave when shown the broken 2-1/2-inch parliament butt which I wanted to replace. "They don't make that any more," he said.

Was there something similar that they did still make?

KIWANIS BOOST SCHOLARSHIP FUND — Clyde Woerner, vice president of the Georgetown Kiwanis Club presents a check to Mrs. Joanne Land as a contribution to the Henry Matyssek Law Enforcement Scholarship Fund. Mrs. Land, daughter of the late Williamson County Sheriff, is administrator of the scholarship fund. The check represents the excess of contributions in completing the Matyssek Memorial Bust project sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club. Woerner directed the fund raising drive for the project. Scholarship donations may be sent to P. O. Box 518, Round Rock.

They Don't Make That Anymore

"How about a 3-inch parliament butt?" he suggested.

If it could be fitted onto an interior window shutter with very thin wood where the screws went, I said, I would take it. I took it. At home, the screws turned out to be too broad. They split the wood. Removing the shutter, I went to a mill for a replacement.

The salesman examined my shutter with contempt. "They don't make that any more," he said. He sold me a complete set of the very latest shutters. They were so heavy that they pulled out of the screw holes while being installed, fell outward and shattered the window frame.

The lumber-company salesman looked at my shattered window with absolute delight. "And you want a replacement for this window? You must be kidding."

"I assume they don't make it any more."

He smiled in triumph and sold me the new window they were making that very day, which was so big that the old window space had to be enlarged to receive it. While cutting open the house with a power saw, I accidentally sawed through a supporting beam and a large part of the second floor fell into the dining room.

"I need a jack strong enough to raise my second floor out of the dining room without, at the same time, sending my dining room crashing into the cellar," I told the salesman of construction equipment.

"I know exactly what you want," he said. "It's the lightweight second-floor elevating jack, Model 1322, but I got bad news for you, pal. They don't make it any more."

There was nothing to do but buy a brand-new second floor, so I had a second-floor salesman come look at my old one. He said they didn't make that kind any more, and sold me the very latest thing instead.

With a little help from the neighbors, I almost got it into place, but it was so much heavier than the old second floor that when the weight began to settle it pulled the roof down through the attic, which collapsed the attic floor, which fell onto the second floor, which settled slowly down onto the dining room, the living room, the kitchen and the television set.

When the family arrived home, they were not amused. "What's been going on here?" they asked.

I told them I was replacing the broken 2-1/2-inch parliament butt on the dining-room window shutter and had run into complications. They said I had better do something about the house right away as there was likely to be rain.

"Relax," I said, "they probably don't make rain any more."

The house salesman I saw about replacing the house said they didn't make houses like mine any more, and showed me a mobile home which they were making that week.

When I loaded the family aboard to set out upon the mobile life, the children, who were vast adolescents, said it was too small and refused to go. There was no time to argue as we were holding up traffic and we had to leave them behind, but I told my wife not to worry because we would get some replacements.

"They don't make that kind any more," she said.

After driving for several years, my wife turned off the television set one day and said mobile living was all right, but it would be better if there were some places to be driving to.

"They don't make them any more," I told her.

One day as the house was driving along a highway by an ocean, a hinge on the refrigerator door broke. "Let's drive to a hardware store and replace that hinge," she said.

I ordered her to get out of the house, aimed it at the ocean and jumped free as it went down for the third time. "Why did you drown the house?" asked my wife as I came ashore.

"A magnificent gesture," I declared.

"They don't make them any more," she said.

The carpenter knows that there is a proper way to hold the hammer, and that the nail must be hit from the right direction or the nail will bend. As children of God we need to make the right impact on others. When we attend church we learn how to treat others, and at the same time are setting an example for others. If we remain straight as a well hit nail, then others are less likely to bend. "For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you."

Adam D. Sedwick dies here Monday

Sixty-eight year old Adam David Sedwick of 902 West 15th St., Georgetown, died Monday March 15, 1976 in the Georgetown Hospital. Mr. Sedwick was born August 5, 1907 in Williamson County to parents Mollie Norvell and John H. Sedwick and married Nellie Millie on September 11, 1937 in Georgetown.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Nellie Sedwick of Georgetown; three brothers, John Harvey Sedwick, and John L. Sedwick of Georgetown, and Emzell Sedwick of Austin; three sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell of Eldorado, Mrs. Tommy Williams of Georgetown, and Miss Alberta Sedwick of Austin; and three grandchildren. One daughter, Elizabeth Sedwick preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, March 18, 1976 at 2 p.m. at Friendly Will Baptist Church of which he was a member. He was buried at Rocky Hollow Cemetery with Rev. Van Powell officiating. Pallbearers were Harvey Miller, Charles Miller, Emzell Sedwick, Jr., Floyd R. Sedwick, James Miller, Chester Miller, John L. Sedwick, Jr. and Donald R. Sedwick.

Lions rummaging for sale items meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Love of Austin spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Caskey.

Mrs. B. W. Glover is a patient in the M and S Hospital in Georgetown.

Those wishing to donate items to the Georgetown Noon Lions Club for their annual rummage sale to be held April 3 may call Leon Shrank, sale chairman, at 3-2041 or 3-6034 (home). Claude Hays, in making the announcement, said that he can also be contacted at Georgetown Title Company.

The Rummage sale is to begin at 8 a.m. Saturday, City election day, on the courthouse lawn. Proceeds from the sale will be used for eye glasses for the needy, especially school children in the trade area. Other club projects include the Lions Cripples Children's Camp at Kerrville.

Area Deacons meet at First Baptist Church

Fifty eight deacons and wives from Bell and Williamson Associations met Saturday, March 13, at the First Baptist Church in Georgetown for a one-day seminar.

The meeting which had been previously scheduled to take place at the Highland Lakes Baptist Encampment had to be rescheduled because the Encampment was damaged by hail and high winds.

Dr. Leroy Kemp, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Belton, taught the Book, The Ministry of the Deacon, by Howard B. Foshee, to the men.

Mrs. Jean Kemp, teacher and worker from First Baptist Church, Belton, held the sessions for the women dealing with the book, Building a Better Marriage by Reuben Herring.

The seminars were designed as a means of training new deacons and organizing and implementing the family ministry plan.

Phone rate rehash set

Possible telephone rate increases will be discussed by Georgetown City Councilmen and General Telephone Company representatives when they meet in special session at 4 p.m. Thursday in City Hall.

Councilmen will also award a contract to construct a new fire substation on Williams Drive at that meeting, call a Council meeting to canvass results of April 3 city elections, and set salary for telephone officials.

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY approached the Council in October of 1975 asking permission to raise rates enough to generate $106,392 additional income annually from the Georgetown-Jarrell exchange.

According to the company's information package, the increase would raise GenTel's net income margin from 6.76 percent to 9.48 percent of its investment in the exchange.

The request was based on a study of income and expenses through the exchange from March 31, 1974 to March 31, 1975.

Two construction bids for the new substation are being considered.

At the March 8 Council meeting, the Alstair Corporation of Austin submitted a bid of $114,981 while M. H. Braden Construction of San Antonio submitted a bid of $117,045.

COUNCILMEN J. D. Winger and William Shell, along with City Manager Leo Wood and Asst. Manager W. L. Walden, were appointed to study the bids and will recommend one at the special meeting Thursday.

The voters approved $100,000 in General Obligation tax bonds in 1974 for construction of the station, cost of which has been estimated at about $93,000.

The 4,100-square-foot facility will be built at the intersection of Williams and Central Drive.

RM620 project approved

The Executive Committee of the Capital Area Planning Council (CAPCO), chaired by Harry Gold of Georgetown, approved proposed improvements on Ranch to Market Road 620 West of Round Rock at its meeting this week.

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, District 14, will realign the road from 2.8 miles west of Round Rock to its intersection with Interstate Highway 35.

The road will also be widened from 44 to 60 feet in municipal sections, from 20 to 48 feet in rural sections. No relocations will be required. Estimated cost of the project is $400,000.

Youth players close season

The first year of the Youth Basketball League completed its season with a gathering at the Georgetown Community Center Saturday night at 5:30 p.m.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grade girl and boy basketball players and their families brought food and drinks for the picnic supper.

Pirate sports

Three other Buc golfers shot solid 75's to help win the match, including Rick Ailts, John Jones, and Steve Doering. Doering, a Georgetown product, just recently joined the team after a successful season in basketball.

"I was pleased with their performance, especially Birkelbach's," said coach Bill Merritt.

Southwestern will host its own tournament on the Country Club course on March 29 and then will be playing for the conference title in Marshall on April 8-9.

TENNIS
The tennis team will be coming back after a close match with defending champion

St. Edward's in the conference opener on March 11. Last year St. Ed's swept the match with Southwestern 6-0, but this year the Bucs almost split with the visiting Hilltoppers before losing 2-4. Virtually every match could have gone either way.

Southwestern's netters closed the gap on St. Edward's last year and lost the conference championship by only one point, 39-38. So this year the Bucs have a better start than last year, and they hope to improve the situation at St. Mary's. Every team in the conference plays each other in dual matches, and then those teams have another chance at each other in the conference tournament to be held April 8-9 in Marshall.

Juvenile caseload statistics given

Custody of juvenile offenders is given primarily to the parents, "under their supervision and the probation officer," according to an assessment of the Williamson County juvenile probation program prepared by the office of the county judge.

According to the report, compiled in response to questions from county commissioners, a total of 43 juvenile cases were handled in 1975.

"This does not reflect all the cases referred to this office, by any means," said Bill Stubblefield, assistant county attorney. Many juvenile cases, he explained, are handled out of court by the county attorney's office.

A BREAKDOWN of the cases shows theft as a major area of juvenile offense: 18 theft cases were handled in the county court last year, 5 burglaries, 5 possession of marijuana, 3 cases of malicious mischief, 2 attempted rape, 2 shoplifting, 1 school problem and 2 counseling cases.

Four juvenile cases were committed to the Texas Youth Council (TYC) in 1975, with 5 more placed on probation.

"These numbers do not reflect the severity of the juvenile problem — just the number of cases referred to the juvenile courts," said Aart Millicam of Capital Area Human Services in San Marcos.

"The city of Taylor had 79 juvenile cases in 1975. They no longer refer cases to county court because the juvenile court cannot do anything with these youngsters at all. There's no probation officer, no supervision possible for them. So police in Taylor feel it is useless to send juveniles to juvenile court. They sometimes get sent to TYC, or they just get slapped on the hand and turned back home."

MILICAM REPORTED
case totals for the other eight counties in the CAPCO area: Bastrop-25; Blanco-1; Burnet-5; Caldwell-17; Fayette-1; Hays-114; Lee-2; Llano-3.

Of the nine member-counties, Hays is the only one employing a probation officer. The reason Hays is also the county with the largest number of juvenile cases, Millicam said, is that everyone used the county juvenile probation officer there.

"If there are 79 cases in Taylor, there are probably more than 43 juvenile cases in Georgetown, and some in Round Rock and other places, too," Millicam said.

While none of the 1975 cases came from any area children's homes, the county judge's report states, "this is not always the case. The stability of the home is a matter that we have no means to investigate without the service of a probation officer to make a full and complete investigation of the home situation."

The report commends John Harrigan, county adult probation officer, as "well-trained and a dedicated person," but adds that "his time, due to his heavy caseload, is very limited. He has never refused on any occasion to do what he could to assist with juvenile matters."

"The adult probation officer right now," said Ron Werner of Taylor, "is just a bookkeeping secretary. It is a physical impossibility to serve that many people."

A juvenile and his parents are usually required to submit to counseling and supervision with the available probation officer when a case is disposed of, the report states.

While a fee of up to $10 per month is charged for adult probation, there is no fee for juvenile probation services.

Bicentennial Wagon Trains Rolling Along

Rekindling a pioneering spirit and reawakening a sense of history, the Bicentennial Wagon Train which made an overnight stop in Jarrell January 17 is still rolling eastward along the nation's highways and biways to recreate in reverse the westward movement of the nation in the 1880's.

One of four contingents of the Bicentennial Wagon Train Pilgrimage to Pennsylvania, the Texas train is now moving through Oklahoma.

IN JARRELL and all along their way to Valley Forge, wagoners are presenting a special Wagon Train Show. Produced by Pennsylvania State University's Departments of Theatre and Music, the show includes 12 original songs.

"Everyone who missed it missed a once-in-a-lifetime thing," said Loraine Goode of Jarrell. She and her husband Byron let the wagons camp out on their pasture during the Jarrell festivities.

The covered wagons which went through Jarrell are authentic replicas of the ones that carried pioneer families in an earlier time.

The Texas wagon train includes a Conestoga Wagon and a chuck wagon from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, sponsor of the official Bicentennial project, and a Texas Prairie Schooner.

THE WAGONS are carrying scrolls on which thousands of citizens have repledged their commitment to the principles on which the nation was founded. The scrolls, which now include the names of the many Williamson County citizens who signed them during the Jarrell stop-over, will be enshrined at Valley Forge.

In addition to the Texas Wagon Train, a Florida contingent is traveling through Alabama. The largest train on the road reached Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, in late February. It started rolling in Southern California on New Year's Day with wagons from California and Hawaii and since then has been joined by wagons from Arizona and New Mexico.

A SIMILAR train of 20 wagons traveled across the nine northwest states last summer and fall, and have wintered-over in Fort Laramie, Wyoming. These wagons have just started rolling again this month.

The trains will all converge on Valley Forge July 3 and remain encamped there three months.

The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration has designated the Wagon Train Pilgrimage to Pennsylvania as a national Bicentennial event.

Week's news in a nutshell

March 30, 7 p.m., in the High School auditorium. "I urge everyone to attend," said Kubiak who is being contested for his legislative job by Georgetown-Jarrell realtor Charles "Bud" Stockton.

Newsprint jumped $25 per ton this week, which makes it more costly to produce and deliver a copy of the SUN.

Georgetown area residents received, or are receiving, forms for rendering property values for the Public School system as the week ended. And April 15 is bearing down on everyone, especially those experts who are preparing IRS reports for their clients.

PAT LABENSKI, bookkeeper for the Hospital Drive, reported that something over $404,000 was recorded through Friday morning. "It's pretty quiet now," she said, "quite different from what it was when I first went to work. I thought I would never catch up but now I have and only a few checks trickle in each day. But, we sure are happy to see them!"

Georgetown School Board rehired all professional personnel for the next school year.

Trustees agreed to allow the Texas Tradewinds to be distributed in the high school.

THE COUNTY DEMOCRATIC Executive Committee set the order this week for the Democratic Primary Ballot. Names were drawn out of the hat and placed on the ballot in the order drawn. The primary will be held May 1.

Plans for a new neighborhood center are underway with hopes that construction can be completed by the end of the summer. The new center will be located at Montgomery and Eighth Streets.

Democrats draw ballot

of a ballot on which four or more delegates' names have been marked will not be counted. The remainder of the ballot, if correctly marked, would be counted.

"Delegates to the national convention are only pledged through the first two or three votes and then released from their pledges," a representative from the state election division explained.

This could make the delegate as important as the candidate.

For this reason, some Texas voters will use the primary to select three delegates whom they feel will reflect their views as events progress during the National Democratic convention, while others will probably use all three votes to show their favor of one presidential candidate.

Court to consider probation

Juvenile probation matters will be presented before the court again Monday as commissioners hold their regularly scheduled court session at 10 a.m. on the first floor of the county courthouse.

"Dr. Werner, et al" are scheduled to be heard during the meeting, as is the county's fulltime probation officer, John T. Harrigan. Harrigan is scheduled to present "juvenile matters," according to the official court agenda. Dr. Ron Werner of Taylor had attended the March 8 meeting to present the proposal that commissioners hire a full time juvenile probation officer by May 1, 1976. He appeared as spokesman for the ad hoc committee appointed during a meeting in Round Rock, called by the city of Taylor to assess county support of the proposal to hire a juvenile officer.

County Commissioner R. A. Rozacky's two motions that the proposal be adopted failed for lack of a second as Commissioners W. F. Schlickeisen and Wesley Foust actively opposed taking action on the matter until further information could be obtained.

WERNER LEFT the meeting saying, "I plan to get on the agenda again. I'll have everybody I can get over here to prove it. I am going to run an ad in every paper in Williamson County to get every person interested over here."

Ambulance Supervisor James Simonson will request that Bankamericard and Mastercharge credit charge cards be accepted in payment of ambulance bills. He also will present for court approval the names of ambulance attendants hired as personnel replacements.

The court will also consider hiring an assistant for Justice of the Peace R. V. Gann, Precinct 3.

The possible need for permits required before houses can be moved along county roads is set for discussion Monday.

Commissioners will also record the public weigher's bond of Albert Bartosh, if approval of the bond is given.
